Art Unit: 3765

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yan (U.S.P. 6,131,202) in view of Hotta et al (U.S.P. 6,705,353), taken as applied in paper no. 01112005. The patent to Yan discloses elastic headwear comprising a head-covering portion having a plurality of pieces 4,6,12, Fig. 2 at least one piece being made of a woven fabric (see col. 3, lines 56-58) and a sweatband 26, Figs. 5, 6 enclosed by a cover 28 and being stretchable in at least a circumferential direction thereof. To construct the cap of Yan using woven fabric for the pieces 4,6,12, and 28 composed of textured yarns without elastic yarns as suggested by Hotta et al (see col. 3, lines 7-13 and col. 33, lines 34-35 of Hotta et al) would have been obvious since Hotta et al states that the prior art method of using an elastic fiber is undesirable since the tightening force exerted by elastic fibers is too strong (see col. 1, lines 29-31 of Hotta et al). Note that the cover 28 is a part of the sweatband since sweat from the wearer is partially contained by the cover. The particular cross sectional size of the warp and weft yarns (viz. 150 denier) in the formed cap of Yan could have been selected in an obvious manner because limitations relating to size per se are not sufficient to patentably distinguish over the prior art -- In re Rose, 220 F.2d 459, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

Applicant's arguments filed July 11, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant states that Hotta does not recite 150 denier polyester as warp yarns and 150 denier textured polyester yarns as weft yarn. Hotta discloses a woven fabric for sportswear or outerwear is characterized in that the warp yarn and/or the weft yarn is prepared from a textured polyester yarn (see col. 3, lines 7-13 and col. 33, lines 34-35). As noted above the particular cross sectional size of the warp and weft yarns (viz. 150 denier) in the formed cap of Yan could have been selected in an obvious manner because limitations relating to size per se are not sufficient to patentably distinguish over the prior art -- In re Rose, 220 F.2d 459, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
